

The percentage of high school students taking world history courses increased by 43%

over the past 20 years.

From the American Academy's Humanities Report Card 2013