

13%

“Critical Need” Languages

Only a tiny fraction of college students learn languages critically needed for international security and global competitiveness.

*From the American Academy's
Humanities Report Card 2013*